Tsenkher Cave is one of the largest caves in Mongolia, with a main chamber at least eighty-five feet high. With availability of viewing galleries on the main chamber. The cave is registered in the UNESCO "World Cultural Heritage List" in 1996. It was reportedly inhabited by Stone Age people during the Upper Palaeolithic, 10,000 to 40,000 years old. The cave is famous for its rock paintings, which have been dated to 17,000–22,000 years ago.

In terms of the South Gobi, so far there are about more than 90 species of dinosaur fossils that have been found from the Mongolian Gobi. You will travel through the amazing dinosaur birthplace of Bayanzag- the Flaming Cliffs. This spectacular discovery is in the remote South Gobi of Mongolia, home to the rich dinosaur fossils reserve, the "Land of the Dinosaurs" is an area of great paleontological site, magnificent vistas and unique Gobi land formations.

It is also the home to endangered animals such as Snow Leopard, Asiatic Ibex, Asiatic wild ass, Gobi Bear and Bactrian camel. Here you are surrounded by exotic desert land formations, guided and befriended by our guide and driver. Imagine being enveloped in the wild and mysterious Gobi desert, falling asleep in comfortable Ger Camp under the starry Gobi night sky, waking up the vast desert landscape where the dunes can rise to a staggering 200 metres above the valley floor with razor sharp edges that stand out against the bright blue sky.
